Infringing Bunt Mesh Product throughout the United States and through its dealers. On information and belief, Defendant HUMPHRYS and Defendant COVER SPORTS provide instructions and/or directions, directly or by inference through its or its affiliates', dealers' or distributors' promotion and advertising (such as in catalogs and on websites), regarding the Infringing Tarp and the manufacture, sale and/or use of the Infringing Bunt Mesh Product.

IV. DEFENDANT HUMPHRYS' AND DEFENDANT COVERSPORTS'
FALSE MARKING OF THE INFRINGING TARP WITH AN IMPROPER
PATENT NOTICE

25. On further information and belief, Defendant HUMPHRYS and/or Defendant COVER SPORTS advertised, promoted, marked or otherwise identified the Infringing Tarp as covered by U.S. Patent 3,862,876 ("876 Patent") in their catalogs. On information and belief, advertising copy and product descriptions of Defendant HUMPHRYS' and/or Defendant COVER SPORTS' FIELDSAVER[®] Heavyweight Cover (which is the Infringing Tarp) include a photograph of the Infringing Tarp with a patent notice, "Patent 3862876." On further information and belief, Defendant HUMPHRYS' and/or Defendant COVER SPORTS' catalogs also display the "U.S. PATENT 3,862,876" notice on their price list directly under the pricing information for the FIELDSAVER[®] Heavyweight Cover. Note that on the price list, the font size of the Patent Notice is significantly larger than the font size of the prices listed for the products. Notice also that the Patent Notice is prominently positioned as the last text on the page and is centrally located so that a consumer cannot miss it. Copies of relevant pages of Defendant HUMPHRYS' and Defendant COVER SPORTS' catalog are attached hereto as Exhibit E.

26. On information and belief, the '876 Patent was duly and legally issued January 28, 1975 to James E. Graves for the invention "Protective Edge Weighted Cover Cloth." The '876 Patent covers a protective cover cloth having continuous flexible weights secured along at least two opposed edges for securing the cover. On information and belief, the '876 Patent expired on or before January 28, 1992.

27. As explained earlier, Defendant HUMPHRYS and/or Defendant COVER SPORTS did not begin to make, use, offer for sale and sell, directly or indirectly (such as by inducement), the Infringing Tarps throughout the United States and through its dealers until late 2006 or 2007, well after the '876 Patent expired. On further information and belief, the claims of the '876 Patent do not cover the Infringing Tarp.

28. On information and belief, clearly all of Defendants' actions and conduct referred to herein are and were willful and deliberate.
